ABSTRACT

One of the North Dakota Employment Security Bureau's objectives is to provide equality of services in all programs administered by the Bureau to rural area residents throughout the State. This includes services to agriculture, business, government, and workers in meeting their employment and manpower needs. The Supervisor of Rural Manpower Services provides functional supervision and program direction, with at least one staff member in each local and sub-office assigned local area program responsibility to carry, out effective and equitable services to rural area residents. This 1975 annual report provides a summary of Rural Manpower Services accomplished during the year and relates some of the plans for rural services in 1976. Information is given on the: services provided to rural people, farm workers, and rural applicants; crops harvested during the year; 1976 agricultural outlook; youth employment in sugar beets; composition of interstate farm migrant groups; and interstate seasonal agricultural clearance. Rural services of each local job service office are summarized. The Volunteer Rural Manpower representatives, job information centers, and members of the Governor's Committee on Migrants and Seasonal Farmworkers are listed. .Copies of the "Farm Labor and Rural Manpower Bulletin" are included.

RURAL MANPOWER REPORT

One of the objectives of the North Dakota Employment Security Bureau is to provide equality of services in all programs administered by the Bureau to rural area residents throughout North Dakota. This includes services to agriculture, business, government and workers in meeting their employment and manpower needs.

This report is compiled to provide a summary of Rural Manpower Services accomplished during Calendar Year 1975, and to relate some of the plans for rural services in 1976.

On behalf of our Job Service Offices and particularly the Rural Manpower Staff, we express our sincere appreciation to County and City Officials, Social Agencies, Agricultural Agencies and groups; Law Enforcement Officials, the Press, Radio and Television Stations, and in particular, to the network of Volunteer Rural Manpower Representatives and Job Information Center Volunteers for assisting our Agency in extending manpower services to rural areas.

PROGRAM PLANNING AND ORGANIZATION

A. Organization

During Calendar Year 1975, there were no major changes in the organizational structure of the Rural Manpower Program. The Supervisor of Rural Manpower Services provided functional supervision and program direction with at least one staff member in each local and sub-office assigned local area program responsibility to carry out effective and equitable services to rural area residents.

Seasonal Interviewers were also utilized in the Red River Valley to assist migrants, seasonal farmworkers, youth and growers in sugar beets and potato production. Spanish speaking personnel were also employed as outreach workers in the Red River Valley and Williston areas to provide services to migrant workers and their families.

In extending services to agricultural and rural people, the North Danota' Employ-ment Security Bureau concentrated on the following actions during the year:

- Maintain the 40 Job Information Centers located in rural areas. These Centers manned in the local community on a volunteer basis supply occupational and informational materials, self-filing Application and Job Order forms, display the daily statewide Job Bank Index and house a toll-free Job Bank telephone number.
- 2. Provide effective placement, counseling, training and other services to migrants and seasonal farmworkers, including utilization of Title III, Section 303 of the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act.
- 3. Maintain close liaison with the Governor's Committee on Migrants and seasonal farmworkers. Health, Education and Welfare, and migrant committees and agencies in providing services to migrants and seasonal farmworkers.
- 4. Provide concentrated outreach contacts to recently refurned veterans, school drop Pouts, applicants receiving welfare or food stamps, and to other applicants needing manpower services.
- 5. Carry out extensive farm and non-farm rural employer contacts to promote local employment.
- 6. Urge rural applicants and employers to place applications or orders through Job Information Centers or by using the toll-free Job Bank telephone listing.

- 7. Carry out a concentrated program for youth to work in sugar beet hoeing and thinning in the Red River Valley
- 8. Maintain 10 Employment Security Bureau Outstation Offices on a full-time basis in the rural sector to provide services to area applicants and employers.

The above objectives for the year were attained and most of these activities are to be further expanded through the coming year,

B. Rural Meetings and Contacts

State and local Rural Manpower Personnel attended agricultural meetings involving crop, livestock and row crop growers during the year to keep abreast of agricultural developments, determine labor requirements, and offer worker recruitment assistance.

Meetings were also held with agricultural and related agencies and representatives such as, County Extension Agents, Soil Conservation Service, Agricultural Stabilization Committee, Farmers Home Administration and Rural Area Development Committees.

Close contact was also maintained with Social Services, Schools, Health, Law Enforcement and civic and business organizations in the rural sector to explain and provide manpower services to North Dakota rural residents.

C. Training

Statistical and On-site Local Office Evaluations were made throughout the year to assure full emphasis was maintained toward equal services to the rural sector. Staff training was provided on a local and State level in services to migrants and seasonal farmworkers, the Judge Richey Court Order, CETA 303, and other areas of rural manpower services by local office and State Administrative Staff:

1975 CROP SUMMARY

According to the North Dakota Crop and Livestock Reporting Service, production of all major crops showed an increase over 1974, with the exception of potatoes, winter wheat, wild hay, corn and millet.

The Crop Reporting Service showed spring wheat production at 156.3 million bushels, a 14% increase over the previous year. A record durum wheat crop of 104.9 million bushels which was up 48 percent. Oat production showed a 38 percent increase to 56.2 million bushels, barley at 75.6 million bushels showed a 42% increase. Rye at 3.0 million bushels was up 8 percent.

Corn at 6.7 million bushels showed an 8% decrease from 1974. Winter wheat, a minor crop in North Dakota, totaled 3.1 million bushels, down 8% and millet at 2.8 million bushels was down 19%.

Production of potatoes was down 23% from the record 1974 crop according to the Crop Reporting Service, while sugar beets established a new record high of 1.8 million tons, an 18% increase from a year earlier.

Oilseed crop output shows 1975 flax production at 7.1 million bushels, soybeans at 2.9 million bushels and oilseed-type sunflower production setting a record 345.4 million pounds.

The over-all crop harvested was 19.6 million acres, which is 2% below the 1974 level.

The 1975 spring planting season was delayed by a late, wet spring. Heavy rains in late June caused severe flooding in the southern half of the Red River Valley and caused considerable crop loss of grain and row crops such as sugar beets in that area.

The harvest progressed rapidly during the first half of August, however, showers and cool weather after mid-August into September caused quality and yield loss of grain in the south and hampered completion of the small grain harvest. Fall weather conditions, however, turned warm and dry and provided good harvesting conditions for row crops such as, sugar beets, potatoes, sunflowers, corn and soybeans.

The number of family farms in North Dakota declined by 500 in 1975, to 41,000. This compared to a record high of 86,000 in 1933. The average farm size is gradually increasing and is expected to be 1,040 acres in 1976.

1976 AGRICULTURAL OUTLOOK

Information from the North Dakota Crop and Livestock Reporting Service indicates North Dakota farmers intend to plant more acres of hard, red spring wheat, barley and sugar beets in 1976, but fewer acres of flax and soybeans. Durum wheat, oats and corn should remain at the 1975 year level. A breakout of intended planting on some major crops is as follows:

Hard, red spring wheat - 6.9 million acres for a 7% increase over 1975. Durum wheat at 4.1 million acres, and oats at 1.5 million acres show no change. Sugar beets are expected to be planted on 151 thousand acres or 11% above last year. Barley prospective plantings will be up 8% to 2.3 million acres. Flax is expected to decrease 18% to 650,000 acres while corn at 500,000 acres will be unchanged from a year earlier.

SERVICES TO RURAL PEOPLE

During 1975, approximately 46% of the applications for services or about 36,000 persons were from rural areas. Rural persons placed on jobs comprised more than 10,500 or 39% of all individuals placed through the Job Service Offices of the North Dakota Employment Security Bureau.

In other manpower services, 39% of applicants receiving vocational counseling in 1975 and 35% of those tested were from the rural population. Almost 46% of all enrollees in training programs were rural residents. A breakout of services provided and the number of rural people receiving manpower services is included in this report.

In addition to providing outreach services to rural areas throughout the State, the 40 Job Information Centers were maintained. These Centers, voluntarily manned in various county seat and other rural centered towns, served as referral and manpower programs informational points for applicants and employers.

The network of 100 Volunteer Rural Manpower Representatives who provided services primarily to agricultural employers and job seekers was also maintained. During the year these volunteer Rural Manpower Representatives placed nearly 1,100 workers and custom combine crews in small grain, row crop and having operations.

During 1975, 11 full-time Employment Security Bureau Rural Outstation Offices were established. Located mostly in county seat towns, these single staffed offices provide a full-range of services to rural area applicants and employers including job development, placement and referrals to training. During the first 4 months of operation, these Outstation Offices reported 900 new applications and made over 550 job referrals resulting in nearly 400 farm and non-farm placements.

SERVICES TO FARM WORKERS

In 1975, nearly 4,200 agricultural job openings were filled by the Job Service Offices of the North Dakota Employment Security Bureau. This is in addition to the almost 1,100 workers and machines placed by the Volunteer Rural Manpower Representatives.

Participation in services to migrants was considerably expanded in 1975. Under Section 303 of the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act, resources were made available to the Employment Security Bureau to employ Outreach Workers in the Red River Valley and Williston areas where a considerable number of Spanish speaking, inter-state migrants are seasonally employed in sugar beet operations.

Working closely with other agencies such as Health, Education, Social Services and the Minnesota Migrant Council, attempts were made to contact every migrant family in these areas to (1) determine actual number of migrants, both contracted and non-contracted working in or seeking employment in the sugar beet fields; (2) determine migrant needs such as medical, employment, training or other supportive services, and (3) refer migrants to proper agency for services.

Monthly meetings were held by the Governor's Committee on Migrants and Seasonal Farmworkers to assure coordination and effectiveness of migrant services. Agencies involved in migrant services are represented on this Committee with the Employment Service Director of the Employment Security Bureau serving as Committee Chairman.

Migrant outreach activities and local office contacts showed there were about 7,000 interstate migrants in the State for sugar beet thinning and weeding operations in 1975. Of these, 6,400 were in the Red River Valley and 600 in Northwestern North Dakota.

There were approximately 925 families consisting of 3,100 field workers with a pre-season contract through the sugar beet companies in the eastern part of the State. In addition, there were 215 families that migrated to the Red River Valley with no job commitment. Severe flooding in late June caused an approximate 6,000 acre loss of sugar beets planted.

In the Williston area there were 102 contracted migrant families consisting of 360 workers and 240 dependents. The number of migrants without a pre-season employment offer that migrated to that area was negligible.

A total of 10 Migrant Education Centers under the direction of the North Dakota Department of Public Instruction were in operation in the Red River Valley during the migrant season. While primarily an educational program for children of migrant agricultural workers, ancillary services such as, health, food services, and transportation were provided without cost to the migrant. The seven-week program includes services to infants and pre-school age children as well as those at the elementary level. Nearly 1,900 migrant children were enrolled in the Migrant Education Centers in 1975.

BISMARCK

Farm activity changed only slightly from the previous year. Weather conditions in the early months of the season included above average precipitation and this caused difficulty in getting into the fields for planting. The precipitation the remainder of the season was about average and crops were good to excellent throughout the five-county reporting area.

Due to increased mechanization, the necessity for workers trained in the operation of larger farm machinery increased in demand. Shortages were experienced during spring planting because of weather conditions which allowed only a short time for seeding operations.

A large demand continues for seasonal combine operators and helpers to work for custom operators and local farming operations. There is always a steady demand for experienced farm couples with unlimited salary advancement opportunities for capable couples.

The custom operators charged $8.00 per acre, 10¢ per mile over 10 miles for hauling grain, and 10¢ per bushel over 20 bushels per acre. The average wage for farm workers increased again this past year. Pay for single farmhands is now $400-$500 per month plus board and room, and for souples the salary is $400-$700 per month plus housing and extras such as meat and utilities.

The Volunteer Rural Manpower Representatives were contacted after the harvest to collect placement information. Depending on the location of the VRMR and the size of the community, the VRMR's provide outstanding information centers for local farmers and for custom operators. Information about job opportunities and farm employment is traded freely at these focal points. The VRMR's have been made cognizant of the Job Bank and the Toll-Free number by which a call can be placed to obtain information on job opportunities and related programs.

Publicity is handled primarily by radio with some newspaper advertising. The Job Bank provides an up-to-date, statewide source of information on the availability of jobs to any inquiries received. The lack of qualified workers continues to be a problem in the agricultural area.

The Rural Manpower Representative in the five-county area handles various outreach services and activities for the Local Job Service Office. Time spent in the field averages 2 to 3 days weekly. The activities consist of visiting VRMR's, Job Corps recruitment, Green Thumb referral, Food Stamp administration, Monitor/Advocate for migrant labor, and various CETA contracts.

Contacts also consist of visits to juvenile authorities for Job Corps, Agricultural Extension Agents, businessmen, local government offices, high school personnel, and local Job Information Centers on a continuing basis. During the past school year, emphasis was placed on Job Corps recruitment and establishing summer work experience in-school and work experience summer program.

A numerical breakdown of contacts by the Rural Manpower Representative is as follows:

Schools	 68 *		Non-agricultural Employers	 65
VRMR's	 99		Agricultural Employers	 12
Social Services	 60	•	Óther	 35

By providing normal scheduled stops to five itinerant stations the Rural Manpower Representative renders all services to the 5 counties covered under the jurisdiction of the Bismarck Job Service Office.

The services encompass all unemployment insurance activities to the outlying areas including, claims taking, periodic interviews and related U.I. functions. The local RMR can hopefully help anyone who seeks assistance in the rural areas to include U.I. training information, and CETA-OJT information to employers and potential trainees.

The Rural Manpower Representative can function as a total office within the outlying areas in the normal, scheduled stops at the 5 outreach stations. Confact to applicants, students, dropouts, and claimants is provided on a continuing basis. Efforts are made with the local Social Service agencies to assist Food Stamp applicants and others in upgrading their status by providing information about training programs and job opportunities.

The action for the upcoming year will find the Rural Manpower Representative providing increasingly diverse services of Employment Service, Unemployment Insurance and related functions to those persons and employers who have had difficulty obtaining this information prior to this time.

The scope of rural employment and farming has changed considerably within the past few years, and the avenue to a successful program is to provide a better qualified applicant to the rural employer.

DEVILS LAKE

Two developments which have an impact on this area are, the ABM Complex in the Langdon area and Devils Lake Sioux Manufacturing at Fort Totten. If the ABM Complex is mothballed as has been indicated, it will certainly have a large impact on the labor situation in Cavalier County. Devils Lake Sioux Manufacturing is working to expand its labor force by 70 workers by December 31, 1976.

The farm labor market is apparently shrinking. Machines are doing more and more of the work and except for custom combine crews, very little outside help is needed. There always is a demand for youth who are willing to work on custom combine crews through the summer.

ERIC Full Text Provided by ERIC

The Rural Manpower Program is set up on a two-week rotating schedule. The schedule is adjusted according to the level of activity in the various parts of the region. The schedule is as follows:

Towner County Monday . Eddy County Monday Rolette County . Tuesday Cavalier County Tuesday. Ramsey County Wednesday Wednesday Benson County Ft. Totten/Reservation - Ft. Totten/Reservation Thursday Thursday Local Office Local Office Friday Friday

The time in each area is spent making employer visits, contacting VRMR's, writing and servicing CETA-OJT contracts, and contacting schools. VRMR's have reported very little activity in the farm labor market with mechanization ever on the increase. They further report that most farmers are hiring back workers they have had in previous years when help is required. Contact is maintained with all schools to assure a good working relationship on youth programs. The CETA Work Experience In-School and Job Corps Programs are given particular emphasis.

The Rural Manpower Program in this region suffered a break in continuity when the RMR was ill for a period of time and eventually resigned. A new RMR had to be trained and as a result, accomplishments are not what they might have been.

A summary of accomplishments in CETA-OJT and Job Corps from November 1, 1974 to October 31, 1975, is as follows:

CETA-OJT - 38 contracts were written, enrolling 175 people in training. Fifty-six people completed training and were placed; 75 people are still in training.

JOB CORPS - 32 people were screened of which 17 were enrolled. Six applications for Job Corps are now pending.

Following are accomplishments of the new RMR since June 1, 1975, when he entered the program:

- 31 youth enrolled in CETA Work Experience In-School Program for year 75-76
- 77 new applications.
 - 6 job development calls
- 116 non-agricultural placements
- 36 non-agricultural employer visits
- 56 community contacts
- (Virtually all of this activity is the result of outreach)

Two Job Information Centers have been set up in rural areas. They are located at the Social Services Offices at New Rockford and Minnewaukan. Because of the Outreach Office established at Langdon, it was not necessary to have a Job Information Center there.

The JIC's serve a two-fold purpose. They provide job information to applicants and also provide information and a base of operations for the RMR.

DICKINSON

The small grain production in the Southwestern North Dakota area indicated a good to excellent crop with the exception of scattered large areas which experienced loss due to hail damage. Although heavy rains in the spring of the year held up seeding weeks behind the normal seeding time, the moisture gained during that period was very helpful due to late summer drought conditions. The sub-soil moisture provided enough water to provide for good to high yields in all areas.

The harvest of small grains began at the end of July with most of the activity very slow until about mid-September when hot weather conditions began the ripening of small grains quite rapidly. The ripening of the small grains was very sporatic from field to field and began, for the most part, about two weeks behind normal activity. The harvest was not completed until about October 1. Due to the late season, many of the custom crews normally in the area during the harvest season had left the area and thus created, for the first time in many years, a shortage of crews to cut small grains.

Hay production was good to very good throughout most of the area. All areas experienced a good first cutting with many areas also getting a second cutting. July was the peak cutting month. Due to low hay production in the year prior and low hay production in the eastern part of North Dakota, the price of hay remains quite high. The greater use of hay stacking machines again resulted in the low demand for bale haulers.

It appears that the higher grain prices and good yields will again enable many farmers to invest in more efficient equipment which will result in the need for less farm laborers, and in a need for more qualified farm workers to operate these machines. The trend toward larger, more efficient farm operators will continue.

The target areas for the Rural Manpower Program were again the Beach, Bowman, Hettinger and Mott areas. Contacts on a lesser basis were also made to the Killdeer and Halliday areas. The number of contacts made to each area is based both on population density and need. Special emphasis was given to areas with a high rate of WIN applicants dropouts, Food Stamp applicants, and individuals receiving public assistance. Trips to areas were, scheduled on the basis of the number of referrals made by supporting agencies, as well as regularly scheduled itinerant service to areas. Unemployment Insurance service was also scheduled on a regular basis.

Emphasis was placed on the development of contacts with schools, public agencies, community representatives, and employers in the outlying areas. Participation in area Rural Development Committees and Youth Development Committees was also a prime concern. In addition, many local farm and organization meetings were attended. These contacts were made to promote the Employment Security Bureau and explain its service and promote good will.

Speaking engagements were completed with classes in 12 area schools outside the Dickinson area to explain Employment Security Bureau services. An attempt was made to better acquaint employers with the Employment Security Bureau through the use of radio programs held on KNDC Radio in Hettinger and KDIX Radio in Dickinson These programs were also used to list training opportunities and job openings so individuals seeking work or training would be aware of our services and job openings.

Regular contacts and visits were made with Schools, County Welfare Agencies, County Nurses, County Agents. County Superintendent of Schools, Law Enforcement Agencies agricultural and non-agricultural employers, to explain the Employment Security Bureau and the programs it offers.

Visits on a bi-weekly basis were also made to all target areas for the purpose of taking applications and claims, and to explain training programs available.

Fifteen Volunteer Rural Manpower Representatives were appointed to assist in placement of combine crews. The VRMR's made a total of 205 mass placements in the Southwestern North Dakota area.

Job Information Offices were continued on a regular basis in the Beach, Bowman, and Mott areas. An Outreach Office replaced the Job Information Office in the Hettinger area. This office also set up a Summer Youth Program for the Adams County area.

Many programs were used to assist employment in rural areas These include: Work Experience, Summer; Work Experience, Other; Work Experience in-School; Youth Conservation Corps: Job Corps; WIN; OJT; PSE; and Job Bank. The Rural Manpower Representative accomplishments for 1975, were as follows:

- 1 321 New Applications
 - 116 Individuals Counseled
 - 263 Individuals Tested
 - 143 Individuals Placed in Training
 - 423 Non-ag Placements

- 54 Agricultural Placements
- 58 Job Development Contacts
- 554 Employer Visits
 - 80 Promotional Telephone Calls

FARGO

Three Outstation Offices were established in the four-county administrative area of the Fargo Job Service Office, namely at West Fargo, Mayville and Lisbon. This enables the Fargo Job Service Office to provide equitable access by rural residents to the various Manpower Programs administered by the North Dakota Employment Security Bureau.

There were 19 Volunteer Rural Manpower Representatives appointed to assist farm and non-farm employers; farm and non-farm workers in a Labor Assistance Program. The VRMR's accounted for a total of 305 job placements, both agricultural and non-agricultural.

Preliminary plans for the 1975 Youth Sugar Beet Program were started in late January and early February of 1975. Due to an over-commitment of acreage in the 1974 season, a decision was made to reduce the Cass County Beet Program by 1,000 acres.

The initial contact with growers was made by telephone in February, 1975. Telephone acreage commitments were confirmed by a follow-up letter to the growers. In April and May, the initial youth recruitment efforts were started. The following schools in Cass, Traill and Steele Counties were contacted regarding the program fargo, West Fargo, Casselton, Kindred, Buffalo, Arthur, Hillsboro and Finley.

An application format was developed for the Youth in Sugar Beets Program recruitment efforts. A personal visit was made to Fargo South High School for one afternoon for sugar beet work recruitment. A booth was set up in the main corridor.

All the other schools were furnished with a supply of applications and pamphlets. A school official was selected to handle the actual recruitment in each school. This procedure worked out very well. Letters were mailed out in May to all program participants from the previous year. Continuous radio and newspaper ads were used and the results were very favorable.

A total of three crews operated in Traill and Steele Counties. Ten crews operated in Cass County. We had one crew of college students in Traill County. Several migrant crews were placed in Cass and Traill Counties.

Area flood's and excessive rainfall in June reduced acreage worked and made some of the worked acreage extremely difficult to complete.

Very close contact was maintained with the four sugar beet company Fieldmen in the area during the campaign. There was constant exchange of information regarding the condition of fields, etc., in the area. During the 1975 season, there were 12 crew supervisors, 9 male and 3 female. A total of 562 youth participated in the program. A total of 2,255 acres were hoed. The average hourly rate was $2.29. The total youth earnings were $52,193.25 for the 1975 season.

The Rural Manpower Representative worked and cooperated with the Minnesota Migrant Council, County and City Health Departments, area Law Enforcement Council, area Social Services, and other groups and organizations in furthering services to rural areas. CETA-OJT contracts were developed in Mayville, Finley, Hope and Lisbon, and several other rural small towns in the four-county area. Recruitment efforts were conducted for the Local Initiative Program at Hope, North Daketa.

The Rural Manpower Representative Program is set up with one day a week trips to the Mayville and Lisbon areas to coordinate the efforts of the Outstation Offices in those areas.

GRAFTON

The Rural Manpower Programs are under the supervision of the ESB Manager. Volunteer Rural Manpower Representatives were appointed and briefed in the early spring. In May, a bilingual Outreach Worker was hired and trained to work with the Texas migrants. A branch office was opened in Cavalier to provide better service in Pembina County. The person in charge of the Cavalier Office was trained in both E.S. and U.I. activities.

Crops and crop prices have been very good for three years. This has caused a boom in building and construction activities in the rural areas. The construction has been in the form of housing and warehousing for Agri-business and has not reflected an in crease in population or businesses.

The out-migration may have been stemmed the past two years but will continue when construction activity levels out.

The unemployment rate for Walsh and Pembina Counties is the highest in the State of during the winter. This is caused by the seasonal agri-business and building industries.

The Texas migrants stayed through fall work for the first time this year. Normally, they leave after beet hoeing is completed. They were able to find more work available in the area because of an increase in construction.

Starting last winter we planned and provided services for Texas migrants. When the Texas migrants arrived we had a bilingual staff person trained to make contacts with migrants in the field and in the office. We had a working arrangement with the Minnesota Migrant Council and we helped train 4 workers they had in the area to perform services for the Texas migrants. Job Service and the Minnesota Migrant Council were very active in contacting nearly all the Texas migrants in the field. We made them aware of job placement services, housing regulations, finding housing for them, health services and made the migrants and the growers aware of the complaint system.

The Grafton Job Service Office and Grafton Chamber of Commerce sponsored a program through radio and newspapers to inform employers of minimum wage laws. Publications on minimum wage were also made available through this program.

The Grafton Job Service Office staff made several talks to civic groups about the new Complaint System in early spring.

GRAND FORKS

Migrant Labor Conferences dealing with CETA, Title III activities, led off the planning for the 1975 season. Several meetings of the Governor's Committee on Migratory Labor were held where Welfare, Health, Labor, Education Departments, Job Service Office and Beet Co-ops in the Red River Valley, and migrant groups were represented.

These conferences dealt with conformity throughout including the Secretary of Labor's 13-Point Program migrant medical assistance. Food Stamp eligibility for migrants, Day Care Centers, housing problems, and the whole range of migratory labor problems.

With the closing of two local potato products factories in mid-year, many seasonal workers who depended on factory work for the winter became unemployed. Normally, there are many farm workers and some farmers who work during the winter in potato products or sugar beet refineries. More and more potato dealers are turning to bulk shipping of their potatoes, thus almost eliminating lifting 100 lb. sacks by hand.

Sunflowers and pinto beans are becoming important crops in the Red River Valley. Both crops can be seeded late and sunflowers are often harvested after freeze-up. This stretches out the farm year and enables the farmer to operate a few extra acres without purchase of any new or special machinery.

Farm wages seem generally to be rising although there is a wide range of wages paid seasonal farmworkers - from $2.-50-$3.00 per hour; $15.00-$20.00 per day plus board and room; $350-$700 per month with housing and other extras.

A number of forces affect the in-migration of seasonal farm labor. Some factors tend to increase the number of migrants, and some of them are:

- 1. The construction or expansion of sugar beet refineries.
- 2. The rising acreages of sugar beets.
- 3. Work shortages in Texas or other States where many migrants reside.

Factors discouraging employment of migrants are:

- 1. The rising cost of labor.
- 2. Availability of electronic beet thinners. These are becoming increasingly popular and owners often do custom thinning for neighbors.
- 3. Techniques combining chemical weed control with controlled-spacing planters and cultivation.

Our Volunteer Rural Manpower Representative network functions primarily as an information source where workers can find labor bulletins, where Job Corps and other pamphlets can be found, and as a worker referral source.

Job Information Centers are maintained at Larimore and Lakota. the Local Job Service Office hired a Spanish-speaking interviewer who participated in meetings at our office with ES representatives and Minnesota Migrants, Inc.. Numerous contacts were made throughout the season with migrants informing them of assistance programs, helping with transportation, explaining programs in Spanish; making job and training referrals and maintaining a working relationship with other agencies.

The Employment Security Bureau and DANA, the Dakota Association of Native Americans, keep in close touch to assist Indians to find employment. We offer them, of course, the same services available to other applicants - counseling, testing, referrals, training and resettlement programs.

Our downtown office at the Grand Forks City Mission is set up primarily to assist employers with spot job laborers and find work for transients and others desiring only a few days of weeks of work. It is open from 7:30 a.m. to 9:30 a.m. every working day and in the harvest season from 7:00 a.m. to 9:30 a.m. Besides. It is open from 7:00 a.m. to 9:30 a.m. to 9:30 a

We hired a seasonal interviewer who administered the Youth Beet Program from May through August. About 150 Grand Forks area youth thinned and hoed about 800 acres of sugar beets. Much of this work was hoeing weeds after the electronic thinner had done its work.

Our WIN Coordinator makes rural WIN contacts and places rural WIN enrollees. The Local Veterans Employment Representative offers E.S. services at bi-monthly visits to the Grand Forks Airforce Base and sends monthly newsletters throughout the two counties. Our contract Service Representatives frequently visit employers in the rural areas making available the CETA Programs.

Our office worked with 461 migrant families, many of which were non-contracted. We placed 140 in agricultural jobs and 184 in non-agricultural jobs. Job development was done for 136 migrant applicants. We referred 68 families to health services, 225 families to Food Stamps and many to other cooperating agencies.

JAMESTOWN

Total farm placements rose from 247 in 1974 to 446 in 1975, and of that total, 219 placements were made by our 22 Volunteer Rural Manpower Representatives.

There were 24 On-the Job contracts written in rural areas, a rise of 17 over 1974; there were 3 Job Corpsmen recruited: 8 talks were given to senior classes and 2 speeches were made at Career Day gatherings. Two-hundred five visits were made to employers in rural areas to promote Employment Service activities. The four Job Information Centers were continued.

Both farm and custom combine placements were up considerably from 1974. Heavy snowfall in April contributed to a very wet spring making planting late. This was followed by excessive rainfall the last part of June and early July causing problems in low-lying areas. Late July and August were very dry but crops did well due to earlier season moisture and over-all production was high.

The number of custom dombine crews available were adequate at most times and we were able to find work for most of the drews. Total custom combine crews placed was up sharply from last year, rising from 172 in 1974 to 342 in 1975.

All high school dropouts and other prospective Job Corps applicants were contacted through referrals from schools. Welfare Agencies and dropout program listings.

The Rural Manpower Representative worked closely with the Volunteer Rural Manpower Representatives to set up On-the Job Training and Work Experience-Other Stations, as well as recruiting applicants for institutional training and Job Corps.

Veterans returning from the Service were contacted and offered the full services of the Employment Service.

Work stations for the Summer Youth Work Experience and In-School Work Experience programs were set up in every town and school in the 7-county area that were interested in participating in the programs, and had low income youth available. The participating youth were interviewed, applications taken and eligibility was certified.

MANDAN

The Rural Manpower Program in the five-county area was organized with the establishment of 11 Rural Manpower Representatives of which 4 are also Job Information Centers. The RMR's were contacted at the beginning of the season and a final visit at the end of the season. Outreach Interviewer makes contacts while out in the area.

More wheat was grown in the area this year than in 1974. The basic crops are wheat, oats, barley and flax. Yields varied considerably due to rainfall and hot weather. Approximate yields were: Wheat - 25 bushess per acre; Barley - 25: Oats - 50; Flax - 7. It is anticipated that greater acreage of wheat will be planted in 1976 if market value continues to remain high.

Rural Manpower Representative contacts were made with schools, Volunteer Rural Manpower Representatives, Social Services, school dropouts, and local businessmen, approximately once per month in Morton, Oliver and Grant Counties. With the establishment of an Outstation Office at Beulah, contacts were more frequent in Mercer County. Sioux County was contacted twice a week. Non-agricultural placements were made in Hebron and New Salem by the Volunteer Rural Manpower Representative.

. There are Job Information Centers at Flasher, Hebron and Hazen and posters have been placed in business places to identify these Centers

MINOT

The weather contributed to a sharp decrease in farm placement activity this year. Unseasonably cold weather and flooding delayed planting. A severe hail atorm and rain interferred with harvest activities. Custom combining in the Berthold area in particular was reduced to 10 machines, all with prior contracts. Activity at Kenmare was reduced considerably because of delays due to rain forcing out-of-area contractors to return home due to school and business in other States. A large number of new combines were sold locally this year, in some cases, to small cooperative groups. This action should considerably reduce demand, and likewise, dependence on custom harvesters, especially inter-state contractors.

Primary emphasis on recruitment of workers for rural job openings was through CETA On the Job Training Program, utilizing local job applicants. A total of 34 contracts were written for 42 workers. Job Corps recruiting was successful this year. Apparently good publicity is coming back to the rural areas as more young people are willing to try it. Over 60% of our present quota attainment has been filled by rural youth.

This office experimented with two Rural Outstation Offices this year, hiring two individuals to operate offices in Rugby and Bottineau. From the beginning, both have been active and the response from local employers and job seekers has been gratifying. The City of Bottineau and National Guard cooperated in providing office space and furniture in that city, and space for the first four months in Rugby was provided by a local businessman. Since July, the Rugby Office has been housed in the Heart of America, Human Services Center. This unique facility also provides space for an area office of Vocational Rehabilitation, Social Services Youth Service, Alcohol and Drug Counseling and a full-time Parole Officer.

The Cities of Bottineau in Bottineau County and Rugby in Pierce County are 45 miles apart and both are chiefly farming communities and county seats. The population varies by less than 200. Bottineau is also the heart of the Turtle Mountain Recreational area which has been building and expanding for several years while Rugby has become an expanded retail trade and manufacturing area.

Seven rural Jøb Information Centers have been established, one in each county seat, plus one at the Farmers Union Oil Company in Kenmare. The Bottineau Center located at the Bottineau Branch of North Dakota State University, gets considerable attention because of vocational student interest. A temporary center was established at the Volunteer Rural Manpower Representative point in Berthold.

Contact with 25 Volunteer Rural Manpower Representatives was maintained on a regular basis during the crop season. These Volunteer businessmen contribute their time to assisting agricultural employers obtain workers and custom machines as well as referring workers to non-farm employers.

VALLEY CITY

The supply of single farmhands was adequate to meet local demands. Some shortages occurred during harvest and fall work, but did not reach the critical stage.

Placement of custom combine crews by our Volunteer Rural Manpower Representatives was up considerably over last year. This increase can be attributed to adverse weather conditions and the lateness of the harvest season.

In addition to providing a central contact point for custom combine crews in the local area and local farmers, the VRMR's served as excellent information points for custom crews planning to come to the area and for routing crews already here to demand locals.

Rural Manpower Outreach Services in Griggs and Barnes Counties were mainly program oriented. Area schools were contacted to recruit youth and set up work stations for the CETA Work Experience, Summer and In-School Programs. City and county governmental agencies were contacted to explain the CETA Public Service Employment Programs and Work Experience-Other Programs. Several rural applicants were placed in rural communities as a result of these programs. Eight rural youth were referred to Job Corps, three have been enrolled and five are awaiting assignment.

Future plans are to establish a Job Information Center in Cooperstown, County Stat of Griggs County, and maintain rural outreach contacts and efforts on a scheduled basis. Through scheduled outreach service and the establishment of a Job Information Center in Griggs County, accessibility to Manpower Services by rural residents should be improved. Increased emphasis on rural services will also put our office in compliance with the intent of the Secretary of Labor's 13 Points.

WAHPET ON /

The farm season for 1975 started late but with good weather which made spring planting progress rapidly. After June 17, 1975, heavy rains hit both Richland and Sargent Counties causing damage and flooding of 10 to 15 percent of croplands. The weather for the remainder of the summer was good and the harvest progressed rapidly due to dry conditions.

Richland County had a rather poor harvest. Wheat averaged 15-20 bushels per acre; corn 50; soybeans 25; barley 28; and oats 30. Sunflowers averaged 750-800 lbs. per acre and sugar beets 13.7 tons per acre.

Sargent County had a fair harvest. Wheat averaged 25 bushels per acre; corn 30-40; soybeans 20; barley 20; flax 18; and millet 35. Early sunflowers were attacked by the sunflower moth and yielded 650 lbs; late seeded sunflowers were not hit as hard and averaged 1,500-1 800 lbs. per acre.

Fall harvest weather was good with most small grain crops harvested by the first week in September. Sunflowers and corn were harvested late due to a late killing frost. The sugar beet harvest started September 18, and ended November 4. There are no anticipated changes in crop production for 1976.

Twenty-five agricultural placements were made by our Volunteer Rural Manpower. Representatives; these agricultural placements were for single farm workers. The VRMR at Fairmount also reported 11 non-agricultural placements in steel storage bin construction and other area construction work.

The Rural Manpower Representative in this office combines and handles all E.S. Programs in the district. These include Summer Youth Program; Out-of-School Work Program; Work Experience; CETA; Job Corps recruitment; Institutional CETA; OJT-CETA; PSE-CETA; Model. Ex-offender Program, CETA; LIP-CETA; VRMR activities: Mandatory Listing, and General Publicity and Publications.

We have experienced good participation in all E.S. Programs. On-the-Job contracts have been in operation in Forman, Hankinson, Wyndmere and Wahpeton. PSE-CETA contracts have been in operation in schools at Forman, Havana, Abercrombie, Hankinson, Milnor, Wyndmere, Lidgerwood, Mantador and Wahpeton. PSE-CETA contracts have also been in operation in the City of Forman, Richland County Social Services and the North State School of Science.

WILLISTON

Plans are to continue operations much the same as in the past over most of the area with the exception of the migrant groups. The Montana Migrant Council will handle the outreach activities concerning migrants in the Trenton-Fairview areas: We will continue to offer our services to any migrants wanting to relocate to this area.

The Rural Manpower Representative will continue to offer services in the rural area, promote Job Corps, Veteran employment, and other employment programs. He will continue to set up and monitor Youth and Work Experience Programs. He will also continue it herant service to Crosby for unemployment insurance.

The year 1975 showed an increase in the quantity of small grain acreage seeded. Crop yields fluctuated considerably throughout the three-county area due to sporadic moisture conditions. Prices remained high and farmers are putting every available acre into production. The price of land continues to increase and only established farm operations are able to expand.

The seasonal workforce has remained approximately the same. It looks as if the demand for farm workers will remain about the same in the grain farm area and will show a small decline in the livestock industry.

A need will exist in coming years for well qualified farmhands, the type of person who is able to operate and maintain the latest models of farm equipment and also manage large farming operations.

There was a fair demand for custom cutters in our area this year, however, the supply usually met the demand and we do not anticipate any real change this coming year. The local Job Service had direct involvement in the cutting of around 15,000 acres.

The Radio Program that originates from our office each day provides for rapid response to all current farm openings. This has proven a valuable tool at peak labor need times when we have a lack of registered applicants in our file.

Services were provided to any rural person unable to reach the local office for the type of services required. Services were provided to rural schools, small businesses, community groups and civic leaders.

The Rural Manpower Representative has continued as a member of the Rural Area Development Committees in Divide and McKenzie Counties. The work with this group has been a valuable means of promoting the services and programs available through the Employment Security Bureau.
